1. General
	This document was designed by IPMA-USA for use in its certification program. The design of this document is licensed to others under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License. History	Early versions of this List-of-Electronic-Documents were maintained by hand. We had anticipated that the number of updates would be relatively small post-validation. However, this has not been the case: as our processes mature, many of the documents need to be modified. The main value of the original version was the brief explanation of each document. However: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Most of the explanatory entries were “self-explanatory” since the use of the document was evident from the name, e.g., “Self-Assessment” or “Management Complexity Ratings.”</li> <li>• All of the documents have internal explanations of what they are how to use them, so the text in this document was only marginally useful.</li> </ul> As a result, we replaced the manual version with an automated one that creates an identical list, but without the explanations.
Use	This document is saved as a PDF and placed in front of the PDF of the folder and file listings. That PDF is generated automatically by a program called Print Window. The Print Window options to use are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Style = names only</li> <li>• Columns = 1</li> <li>• Font = Calibri (to match other documents)</li> <li>• Font size = 8</li> </ul>
